

With all due respect to the FCC, I believe it should be my personal decision whether or not I wish to receive unsolicited phone calls. As far as I am concerned, hundreds of thousands of Americans have made it clear that they want these calls stopped. What more do we have to do to make this clear to all concerned short of disconnecting our phones?

Please leave this alone. If anything, the law has to be made more stringent.

Thank you for the opportunity to express my opinion.

Carl Barone